

Overheard

in the Supermarket:

Q. Where can I find Pearl Barley?

A. Oh, I don't think she works here anymore!

in the Car Showroom:

Q. I'm surprised you only get 5 miles to the gallon sir, is that right?

A. That's right, my son gets the other 20

in the Local :

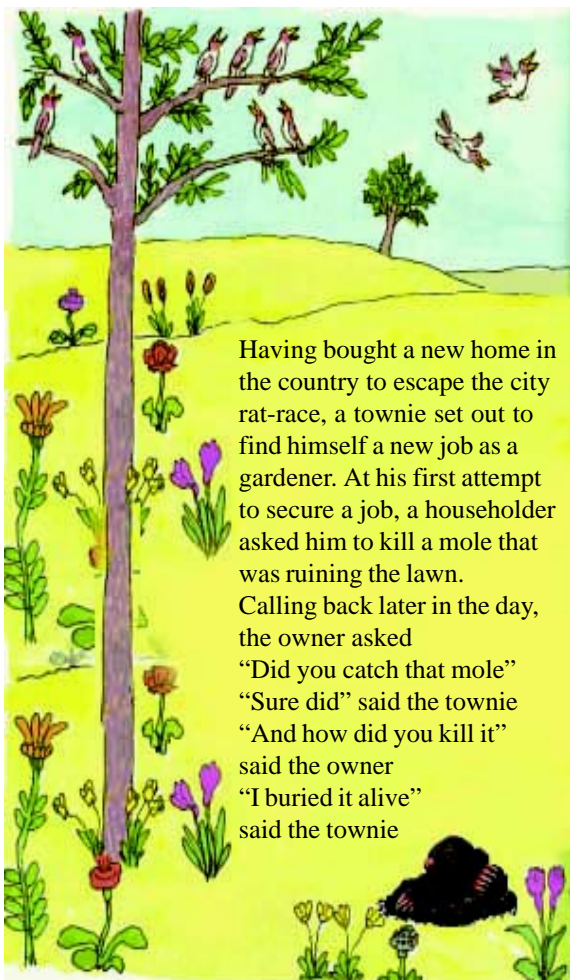

Q. I can't stand this foreign food can you?

A. Me neither, gimme a curry and a pint of lager any-day!

in the Restaurant:

Q. Waitress, do you have any condiments?

A. Yes sir, they're behind the door in the Gents

Having bought a new home in the country to escape the city rat-race, a townie set out to find himself a new job as a gardener. At his first attempt to secure a job, a householder asked him to kill a mole that was ruining the lawn. Calling back later in the day, the owner asked "Did you catch that mole?" "Sure did" said the townie "And how did you kill it" said the owner "I buried it alive" said the townie

Q. What's the difference between a Supermarket trolley and a non-executive director. A. The trolley has a mind of its own but the director can hold more food and drink

Holy Orders

A famous order of monks were renown for their beautiful illuminated manuscripts detailing the laws by which priests and monks should live their lives.

One young monk enquired of the Chief Abbott "Father, we always just copy the last one we made, when did anyone last check the original?"

"No need - Have faith my son" was the dismissive reply.

The years passed and eventually the young monk became the Chief Abbott.

One morning a novice said: "Father, we always just copy the last one we made, when did anyone last check the original?"

Reluctant to dismiss the young man as he had been dismissed many years earlier, the old Abbott descended the stairs into the cellar to seek out the original tablets.

He was gone for sometime.....

Eventually the novice plucked up the courage to seek out the Abbott and found him kneeling on the floor staring into space.

"Is there a problem Father" said the novice.

"There sure is" said the Abbott

"The correct word is celebrate!"

Tommy the young lad goes into a confessional box and says, "Bless me father for I have sinned, I have been with a loose woman."

The Priest says,

"Is that you Tommy, and who is it you've been with?"

"Tis I father, but I cannot tell you for I do not wish to sully her reputation."

"Who was the woman you were with?" The priest asks again,

"Was it Brenda O'Malley?"

"No father."

"Was it Finola MacDonald?"

"No father."

"Was it Ann Brown?"

"No father, I cannot tell you."

The priest says,

"I admire your intention but you must atone for your sins. Your penance will be five Our Fathers and four Hail Mary's".

Tommy goes back to his pew and his buddy Sean slides over and asks, "What happened?"

Tommy replies,

"I got five Our Fathers, four Hail Mary's and three good leads."
