

Pomp & Circumstance

Don't the British do 'Pomp' so well!

The 'circumstance' was a once in lifetime opportunity to get up close and personal to the British and Saudi monarchs as a member of the media team allowed to cover the State Visit to the UK by King Abdullah.

The camera started work on Sunday the 28th October when I was asked to accompany the Saudi Youth Group on a mini-tour of a couple of London's sights and finished on the tarmac at Heathrow's VIP Terminal where upwards of a hundred souls gathered to wave the 747 carrying the Saudi Royals off to their next port of call.

As the photographs will hopefully show, London put on its best dress for the occasion and what a colourful week it was.... Ed.

Above: The PM walks the receiving line

Above: No number plate on the Royal Bentley

Above: The Queen introduced attending dignitaries

Below: Prince Philip and King Abdullah inspect the Guard of Honour

